Years in CSEA: Less than 1

Best Meal You've Had While Traveling?

Hands down, the Pan-Roasted Lobster Flambéed with Brandy, roasted in the oven with a fine herb butter sauce from The Lobster Pot in Provincetown! Not only was it an unforgettable meal, but it also holds a special place in culinary history—it's the first restaurant where Anthony Bourdain ever worked.

What is a book you love or have owned the longest?

The Kite Runner by Khaled Hosseini—an incredibly moving story of redemption, friendship, and the power of storytelling that has stayed with me for years.

What is your favorite museum?

Plot twist—the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C.! I'm a certified tour guide through the Architect of the Capitol, which means I know the extended version of the tour, with all the hidden gems and little-known facts! 😊

Best Field Trip?

Visiting the NPR headquarters and getting to see the Tiny Desk venue in person! Spoiler alert—it really is tiny!

First Concert, Best Concert?

My first concert was seeing Yanni with my parents—a truly epic introduction to live music. But the best concert? Without a doubt... PHISH! No show is ever the same, and the energy is unreal!

What advice would you give your younger self?

Take the longer route and embrace the grind—shortcuts might seem tempting, but they only cut us in half in the long run.

Interesting Piece of Trivia:

I had the incredible opportunity to work for Chairman of the Democratic Caucus, Hakeem Jeffries, during my time on Capitol Hill. Let's just say...I have plenty of stories to share from the Hill!

Fun Fact (About You):

I bartended for five years in NYC at Michelin-starred restaurants, often serving 500+ guests per shift! Hospitality is in my blood—I'm always cooking, always hosting, and always finding an excuse to talk about food. Oh, and I'm also a massive professional wrestling fan—ask me about my tattoos!

Tell us a joke (keep it clean):

What's a wrestler's favorite type of party?

A Royal Rumble! 😂

Be sure to say hello to Rameen if you see him around HQ. Do you know someone who deserves a spotlight? Nominate a fellow member by emailing info@csealocal058.org with the subject line "Member Spotlight!"
